Honor Roll of Donors 03-04

Pacific Lutheran University could not continue to do the important work of educating students for lives of service without the generous support of thousands of individuals, organizations and companies. This essential support ensures that students have needed scholarships, faculty have first-rate facilities and PLU has the resources for both day-to-day activities and for the future.

Here we gratefully recognize every donor who has made a gift to PLU in the last fiscal year, June 1, 2003- May 31, 2004. We also profile a few of those who have supported PLU's mission. All contributors are listed once, in alphabetical order. Initials behind their name denote if they are members of Q Club, the Lifetime Giving Society, the Heritage Society, the Matching Gift Program or if they give to the Independent Colleges of Washington, which in turn supports PLU.

Lifetime Giving Society (L)
The Lifetime Giving Society recognizes an extraordinary group of donors who have given faithfully and consistently over time to sustain and support Pacific Lutheran University. Lifetime giving includes the total recorded gifts and current pledges of cash, securities, real estate and appreciated property, and includes the charitable value of irrevocable planned gifts. These totals do not include revocable deferred gifts or gifts to KPLU.

Heritage Society (H)
Heritage Society is a group of donors committed to securing PLU's future by making provisions for the university in their estate plans. The most common estate gift involves donating a portion of estate proceeds to PLU as part of a will. By using current assets to establish a charitable trust or gift annuity, donors can receive an income stream for the remainder of their lives, with the remaining trust assets going to PLU upon their deaths.

Q Club (Q)
With a minimum contribution of $300 annually (student giving levels begin at $60 a year), one can join this gathering of dedicated friends whose mission is to provide assistance to deserving students as they prepare for lives of service through a Pacific Lutheran University education. Q Club is the "giving club" of PLU's annual fund, and the more than 2,000 members provide the core of scholarship support.

Matching Gift Program (M)
The Matching Gift Program recognizes companies and foundations that have contributed to PLU by matching the gifts of their employees. This support is either designated to a particular fund identified by the employee or given to the unrestricted fund.

Independent Colleges of Washington (I)
Designation is for individuals, companies and foundations who have contributed to PLU by making contributions through the Independent Colleges of Washington. ICW supports private higher education in Washington by soliciting unrestricted gifts from many individuals, businesses and foundations.

PLU's personal attention draws praise, donations from parents

Gary Koch attended a public university and taught at another. But when it came time to send his daughters to college, he wanted them to look at private universities. A trip to PLU convinced oldest daughter Debra '99 it was for her. Daughter Katherine '01 followed, and their parents made regular trips to visit.

“We just fell in love with the place,” Koch said. Koch and his wife, Mavis, served on the Parents’ Council for three years. At one meeting Koch approached development officer Ed Larson about giving to PLU.

“I felt so good about the education Debra and Katherine were getting,” Koch said. “My parents had just died and left me a considerable amount, and I thought ‘Why not give it to someplace that really needs it?’”

The Kochs have made major gifts, including a significant contribution to the renovation of Xavier Hall, a $100,000 pledge for Eastvold Hall restoration and the establishment of the Koch Family Endowed Scholarship. They give $5,000 to Campus Ministry annually, in honor of their daughters’ involvement, and are at the $5,000 annual giving level of Q Club.

“We’ve always been so impressed with the individual attention students get at PLU,” said Koch, who retired from Fresno State University after 28 years and now runs his family tree farm in Pennsylvania with his brother.

You don't need to have deep pockets to make a difference in the world. Doing what you can as a donor and as a volunteer is all it takes, said Susan Andresen '99. Although Andresen didn't attend PLU on a Q Club scholarship, she has been a Q Club member since the year she graduated and she is an active PLU volunteer. "Giving something back is important," she said. "I'm just a basic Q Club member now because, as a recent grad, I don't yet have the financial resources of alumni who have been in their careers longer and can give more," Andresen said. "But I find $25 a month to be quite budgetable."

Andresen also is co-chair of PLU's Graduates of the Last Decade (GOLD) committee.

"I'm a firm believer that if we all give a little bit it will make a big difference and help sustain PLU in the long run."

Andresen is a human resources professional at PEMCO Mutual Insurance Co. in Seattle.

Boeing helps Challenge Program take off

As part of its commitment to the community, The Boeing Co., invests in education, and PLU has been a beneficiary for many years.

Peer coach Gretchen Reucker '05, right, and Naomi Yen '08 work on a painting project as part of the Summer Challenge Program.

Boeing has consistently contributed money toward scholarships and also helps fund the consortium the Independent Colleges of Washington, which helps PLU and other ICW members. This year, Boeing officials also chose to support PLU's new Challenge Program, which provides additional preparatory classes, support and mentoring to students who would not otherwise be granted admission. Earlier this year, Boeing's Dean Cooper met with PLU administrators who told him about the program. Boeing's $10,000 gift helped the Challenge Program take off last summer.

“The fact that it’s taking students who might be at risk of not going to college and giving them a chance was interesting to us,” said Cooper, higher education manager for community and educational relations for the company.

Boeing sets aside money every year to donate to colleges and universities, Cooper said, and he’s pleased PLU is one of them.

“We’ve had a long relationship with PLU throughout the years,” Cooper said. “When you look at universities in the area, PLU ranks up there with some of the best. You have a great campus, and I enjoy coming down there and seeing students being successful because of the help we can give.”

Leaving house to PLU keeps property in the family

Family members never much lived at the place near the water in Laguna Beach, Calif. But it had been handed down through the generations – and had appreciated significantly – since it was built in the 1940s.

When John '61 and Virginia (Crary '64) Edlund inherited the house, they arranged to create a charitable remainder trust to benefit PLU and to give them lifetime income.

“The property was in my family for decades. And my family has had a long history with PLU,” John Edlund said. “So, by giving it to PLU, in a sense the asset stays in the family.”

The Edlunds kept one-third and gave the university two-thirds of the proceeds from the sale of the property. The arrangement means the couple avoided capital gains taxes on their share, received an up-front charitable deduction for two-thirds of the assessed value, and receive a lifetime income stream on the portion of the asset that the trust holds and PLU invests.

“When my wife and I pass on, the principal goes to PLU,” Edlund said.

The Edlunds said they were inspired to give because of their own experiences at PLU and because the university continues to be true to its mission. “PLU produces quality alumni who are making a difference in society,” Edlund said.

The Edlunds are retired and live in Roseville, Calif.

Graduate honors parents with rooms in the Morken Center

For Drew Nelson '81, PLU is about memories. His late parents Len '54 and Suzanne (Skubinna '55) Nelson met at PLU.

“I still remember when my dad and I were walking across campus once, he pointed out the classroom where he first saw my mom,” Nelson said.

Both his parents worked at PLU later in life – Len as a math professor for 10 years and Suzie part-time in the library. She also was a member of the Alumni Board and the Board of Regents. Their other children, Kurt '86, '95, Teri (Gunsauls) Litt '89, '98, also went to PLU.

After Len died, the family decided to name an office in the Morken Center for Learning and Technology in his memory. When his mom died, Drew paid for a second room.

Drew remembers when math classes were still in the basement of Tingelstad – and he lived in the same building. “I used to roll out of bed in sweats for my 8 a.m. class,” he said. The current math building went up when he was in school, but math will have a new home in the Morken Center.

Nelson, who works for defense contractor Northrop Grumman in Florida, participates in the employee matching program and once donated about $10,000 worth of used equipment to PLU's science area.

“There are lots of different ways to give to your alma matter besides raw cash,” he said. “People don't really think about that.”

Family's PLU tradition paves way for the future

PLU goes back a long way for the Edlund family. Kathy (Taylor '64) Edlund grew up across from the university, and for her it was PLU or nothing. Her children are also graduates: Philip '00 and Jenna '96, '99.

Now the family, including Kathy's husband, Larry, have pledged $25,000 over the next five years to have a room named after them in the Morken Center for Learning and Technology.

"You can make a bigger impact when you give as a family," said Kathy, who received both an undergraduate and graduate degree in education and is Q Club president. "It's a way to make a lasting difference."

Donating to the Morken Center, which will house the School of Business and the Departments of Mathematics and Computer Science and Computer Engineering, fits with the family. Both Jenna and Philip were business majors; Jenna received a master's of business administration from PLU and Philip is enrolled in the same program.

"The connection of alumni at PLU was essential to me in my career," said Jenna, who works at Liberty Financial. Philip, who started his own lawn service when he was 9, works at Thrivent Financial.

He made it through college – and gives so others will too

Back in the '30s and '40s not many kids growing up in Swans Trail, Wash., made it to college. Odven Aakre '50 was an exception, surprising even himself.

“It had been a dream of mine to go to college but I never thought I'd get there,” Aakre said. “My brother and I attended PLU but the family didn't have the means to send us.

“It was the GI Bill that made it possible for both of us. That was the best darn government program there ever was,” he said.

Aakre used his soldier's scholarship to study sociology and psychology at PLU. After earning a master's degree from the University of Denver, he served 27 years as a social worker in child welfare and public schools in Colorado Springs.

This year Aakre gave PLU a substantial gift of mutual funds and bank stocks. The university is also in his will.

“I was fortunate to get the financial support I needed to attend college,” he said. “If my gift helps PLU students today finish school, that's just what I want.”

MAKE THE MOST OF YOUR GIFT TO PLU

You may be able to double, or even triple, the amount of your gift to Pacific Lutheran University at no additional cost to you.

Many corporations match the gifts their employees give to nonprofit and charitable organizations. These matching programs have been made part of many corporate giving initiatives both to extend the reach of corporate giving and to encourage employees to be actively involved in supporting their communities.

To see if your employer has a matching gift program, go to www.plu.edu/devel/matching-gifts/home.html and follow the link to the Matching Gifts Clearing House.

Members of Thrivent Financial for Lutherans are eligible for additional matching through the GivingPlus program. You can find an online copy of the gift form at www.thrivent.com.
