

Running Head: TEACHING PROJECT

Art Therapy Teaching Project

Kim Applebee

Pacific Lutheran University

September 25, 2008

N350: Teaching/Learning Project Self Evaluation

Please state one objective that your group formulated for patients attending your group presentation. State the objective as a realistic and measurable patient learning outcome.

okay about 2 patients line included 5 patients

- Demonstrate the use of art therapy by applying the meaning behind colors.
- The patients constructed their projects and then each discussed the choice of colors they used and the meaning of the picture they made for each of the five 'pieces of a person'. The patients were open and receiving to the project. They reflected and applied the use of art therapy.

Was this outcome met or not met? What measures/observations did you use to determine this?
As previously stated, the outcome was successfully met. The patients met all three learning objectives.

- To measure the outcome I observed each patient's participation in first constructing a piece of art with the 5 'pieces of a person' and then in the ability to reflect on the information I gave them about the meaning of color and their own feelings/thoughts associated w/ color.

On a scale of 1 (not at all) to 5 (totally), to what extent do you think the patient learning objective was met?

I would say 4 because other than the two people who were unwilling to participate were very receiving to the topic. I did not pick 5 cause there is always room for improvement

Please state one objective for self-learning related to the project. State the objective as a realistic and measurable self-learning outcome.

My personal goal was to include each individual at the group session and create a safe, comfortable atmosphere.

4-8?

Was your outcome met or not met? What measures/observations did you use to determine this?

I believe that my outcome was met more than it wasn't. I would have liked everyone to take part in it but those who were open to it were very comfortable. This was measurable by their participation and explanations/meaning behind their pictures

On a scale of 1 (not at all) to 5 (totally), to what extent do you think the self-learning objective was met?

3. - so low? good project - you had a group that wasn't the best at free forming or most most cooperative - you did well - give yourself some credit
Again not everyone participated which if so, would have been a 4 and I left room for improvements.

Please add any other comments that you would like about the teaching/learning project.

I enjoyed using a skill that I believe is important for de-stressing and exploring your emotions. There are a few things that I would have done differently or added to my presentation such as handouts and more engaging activities - not just one large project. It was a good experience and I look forward to doing more in the future!

I believe you have excellent skills - keep up the good work

N350: PLU Teaching/Learning Project
Participant/Peer Observer Evaluation

Please complete this form and return it to the clinical faculty.

Topic of Patient Teaching: Use of color and emotion
Date of Presentation: _____

Please rate each student nurse on a scale of 1 (low) to 5 (high) on the items below:

Name (or initials): SS

- 5 Professionalism (on time; dressed appropriately; alert; attentive; prepared)
- 4 Use of therapeutic communication skills
- 4 Demonstration of group process knowledge
- 4 Attentiveness to patient learning needs and outcomes
- 5 Presentation of content was appropriate for patients' attention and comprehension levels

Name (or initials): _____

- ____ Professionalism (on time; dressed appropriately; alert; attentive; prepared)
- ____ Use of therapeutic communication skills
- ____ Demonstration of group process knowledge
- ____ Attentiveness to patient learning needs and outcomes
- ____ Presentation of content was appropriate for patients' attention and comprehension levels

Name (or initials): _____

- ____ Professionalism (on time; dressed appropriately; alert; attentive; prepared)
- ____ Use of therapeutic communication skills
- ____ Demonstration of group process knowledge
- ____ Attentiveness to patient learning needs and outcomes
- ____ Presentation of content was appropriate for patients' attention and comprehension levels

Please add any additional comments about the presentation (or suggestions for future teaching projects).

I think you did a good job preparing for the project. It was a good way to make one think about different areas of their life. I enjoyed hearing what color people paired with the 'emotion paper' we pulled out of the bag. Well done.

2

FB