

Choir of the West, On to Bergen

72 members of the P.L.U. Choir of the West begin their successful tour of four European countries.

Mark Houglum, President of the Choir of the West talks with choir director, Maurice Skones while they await performance time in Odense, Denmark.

Director Skones leads the choir in their special performance for the Crown Prince of Norway as he admires them from the center isle in a church in Oslo, the capitol of Norway.

PLU's Choir of the West traveled to Europe in late May, 1970 to represent Seattle at the Nine Hundred Years' Festival in Bergen, Norway.

The six-week tour also took them to England, Germany, and Denmark. In Rebild, Denmark they performed at the Fourth of July Festival. Other engagements included singing for Crown Prince Harold of Norway in Oslo, and performing at the Aalborg, Denmark Festival with the United States Air Force Band and the Aalborg Symphony Orchestra.

Traveling with the group were Mr. Maurice Skones, director of the Choir of the West, and Mrs. Skones, President and Mrs. Eugene Wiegman, and President Emeritus and Mrs. Robert A.L. Mortvedt.

Gary Thorson, Mrs. Skones, and Mr. Skones finish their lunch while aboard the ship Brand VII.

Debbie Herival talks to Mark Houghlum while Karen Wraalstad and other choir members rest after a tiring performance.

During one of their first engagements the choir gave an informal concert for some of the people of the city of Odense in Denmark.

Choir of the West - 1970-71

Choir of the West members waiting for their cue during the Spring Contemporary Music Concert.

The Choir singing at the Seattle Opera House.

The PLU Choir of the West has sung all over the world.

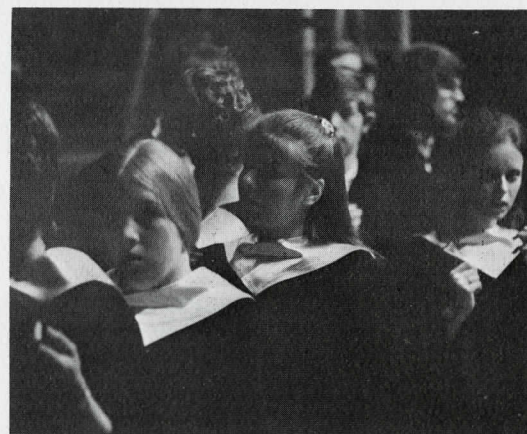

Choir of the West and the orchestra performing at a concert together, Mr. Skones and Mr. Kracht conducting.

The Choir of the West, Mr. Maurice Skones; conductor.

Dave Paulsen, Steve Carlson, Paul Nelson, Sharon Smith, and Diane Stober pose for a promotional shot.

Gretchen Kreamer, Paula Seibert, and Mary Scott get ready to perform at one of this year's many concerts.