

2017 ANTHROPOLOGY CAPSTONE PRESENTATIONS

Tuesday, May 9, ADMN 101, 10:00 to 11:40 a.m.

Anthropology in the United States: Education, Social Media, and Homelessness

Emma McCain ~ Native Youth Giving Back: Identity and Higher Education Among Native American Youth

Kim Bond ~ Students' Belonging: Race and White Hegemony in the Middle School

Terri Clay ~ How Does Social Media Affect Elder Participation in Today's Civil Resistance?

Nathan Blackmer ~ Revanchism Revisited: Neoliberal Urbanization, Seattle's Homeless, and Life on the Streets of the Emerald City

Thursday, May 11, ADMN 101, 10:00 to 11:40 a.m.

Archaeology and Material Culture

Caleb Ranum ~ The Effects of a Decline in Marine Resource Availability on Pre-historic Lucayan Subsistence Strategies on the Island of San Salvador, Bahamas

Stephanie Van Bramer ~ Makah Women Basket Weavers: Where Are They Today?

Georgia Abrams ~ Mitochondrial DNA, Gender, and Identity in the Ancestral Lineages of Bronze Age Britain

Emma Holm ~ Temporal Change in Forager Mobility on the Columbia Plateau: A Lithic Analysis Approach

Tuesday, May 16, ADMN 101, 10:00 to 11:40 a.m.

Identity and Health: Making Meaning in a Changing World

Hannah Sinnes ~ The Trinidad Caribs: Indigenous Ethnic Identity in a Political Landscape

Brandon Jamison ~ Living With the Consequences: Conceptions of Health and Climate Change in Urban China

Kyle Fahey ~ Ethiopian Families of Mixed Religious Affiliation and the Power Dynamics Affecting Ethiopian Cultural Identity

Tessa Alcorn ~ Muslim Women and the Parisian Landscape: Religious and Gender Identities under French Nationalism