

Faculty Recommended Title

When race breaks out : conversations about race and racism in college classrooms -- by Helen Fox

"Instructors can feel unsure about how to deal with conversations about racism and privilege in the classroom, especially when these conversations are unplanned."

"When Race Breaks Out is an excellent, practical guide to creating a safe and intellectually engaged learning environment for all students. I have used it to refresh my skills before beginning a new semester and to help me deal with emergent issues in class. It includes specific exercises and discussion ideas that can be used in courses across the curriculum."

Recommended by
Teresa Ciabattari,
Associate Professor of
Sociology