

General Education Assessment and Report 2015-16

Jan Lewis, Associate Provost for Undergraduate Programs

Initiatives

In April 2015, the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation invited PLU to apply for a $100,000 grant to revise General Education. The original proposal, approved in July 2015, called for the framing of a General Education pilot program to begin in Fall 2016.

The General Education Council took on the development of this pilot program through the usual routes for the development of a curriculum: that is, through on-going conversations with the faculty (in assembly and forms) around proposed models. The timeline for this development and approval process needed completion and approval by December 2015, and then development of courses and recruitment of students during Spring 2016.

Data and Process

Fall 2015

Please see <https://www.plu.edu/general-education/protected/gened-conversation-on-general-education/> for documentation of the development and approval of the “Cornerstones General Education Pilot Program” model.

J-term and Spring 2016