36 semester hours beyond HISP 102

Please note that the sequence of courses will change, depending on the language level in which students start. For example, students starting with HISP 201 in the first year, would take HISP 301 in the fall of their sophomore year. Study Away and J-term offerings, also create the possibility to major on a quicker timeline than the one featured here.

This advising guide is for advising purposes only and does not denote a contract with the student or Pacific Lutheran University. Many programs have specific deadlines for application or declaration; contact the department or program chair for information. This information is accurate as of May 17, 2022; please check with your program chair for updates to the program. The university reserves the right to make necessary changes at its discretion.

General education course requirements are listed assuming that major classes will not count toward the general education course requirements. If a course counts towards a major and a general education requirement (e.g. PSYC 101 if the student is a psychology major), students will still need to take enough courses (shown here as electives) to reach the 128 credits needed to graduate.

- NOTE: See your advisor and the Wang Center for semester and year- long study-away programs in France. Be sure to consult with your advisor about study away course offerings and to obtain pre-approval for some courses (usually two), so that you are sure the credits for those courses will count towards the Hispanic Studies major
