

Koller Menzel Memorial Lecture
“A New Understanding of the Morality of War”

October 3, 2013 at 7:00 pm

Scandinavian Cultural Center, Anderson University Center

Jeff McMahan is Professor of Philosophy at Rutgers University a Fellow of the Uehiro Centre for Practical Ethics at Oxford University. He is the author of The Ethics of Killing: Problems at the Margins of Life and Killing in War. He has several other books forthcoming from Oxford University Press, including The Right Way to Fight and a collection of essays called The Values of Lives.

In this lecture, Professor McMahan will discuss the debate between traditional just war theorists and revisionist just war theorists, arguing in favor of revisionism over traditionalism. It also explains the differences between the implications of the two approaches for such issues as preventive war, humanitarian intervention, and targeted killing.