PROGRAM OVERVIEW

This program focuses on the changing sociopolitical climate of Eastern Europe spanning pre-WW2 through the fall of Communism and its effects on individuals and families. As an interdisciplinary program crossing Political Science and Psychology, we are focused on government/state level transitions and the health of families and individuals, including recovery from traumatic experiences and other issues of mental health and well-being. Students will travel to spend most of their time in Prague with side trips to Terezin and Auschwitz/Krakow.
