About the Performers

Kathryn Einan is a first-year student from Richland, Washington. She is planning on double majoring in history and English, and minoring in music. She has been playing the harp for almost nine years and the flute for seven years. She plays harp in the PLU harp ensemble.

Abbie Foulon is a first-year student from Puyallup, Washington. She is majoring in nursing with the intention of minoring in music. She has been playing the viola for ten years and, prior to PLU, played with the Tacoma Youth Symphony for eight years. She is a member of the University Symphony Orchestra.

Kari Goodrich is a first-year student from Newport, Washington. She is majoring in elementary education with a focus in early childhood education. Kari has been playing the piano for twelve years and trumpet for eight years.

Hannah Gorham is a senior music education major and anthropology minor from Edmonds, Washington. She studies with Svend Rønning and plays with the PLUSO. Hannah also spends time playing in pit orchestras for theaters in the greater Seattle area and here at PLU. She had the pleasure of music directing Night of Musical Theatre in November 2017.

Carl V. Johnson is a senior music education major studying violin with Svend Rønning. He has been part of the Skagit Valley Orchestra and currently plays with the Pacific Lutheran University Symphony Orchestra. He has taken part of the theater department while at PLU as composer and music director for Shatter'd, Powerless: A Music Revue, Romeo & Juliet, and Constellations. He has been playing violin for thirteen years and has been learning countless other instruments while at PLU.

Alex Jones is a student of Dr. Ezhokina, and previously studied with Jan Music. He is in his third year of his piano performance degree, and hopes to avoid being singled out by being more ordinary than is needed, or extra-ordinary, if you will.

Madison Jones did not submit a bio, but her Facebook page suggests that she doesn't post on Facebook very often, loves hiking, has at least one loyal doggie in her life, and is from San Diego.

Emery Kim is a sophomore from Olympia. She did not submit a bio, but according to her Facebook page, she's a graduate of Olympia High School and an equally gifted violinist and pianist.

Erika Query is a senior music education major with concentrations in orchestra and band. She performs in the University Symphony Orchestra, University Concert Band and University Singers. This is her twelfth year on the violin. She teaches violin privately around the South Sound area and is now a proud part of the Bellarmine Preparatory School Band faculty.

Kate Schneider is a senior music and religion double major from Pullman, Washington. Music has always been a part of her life and she has participated in many different chamber ensembles, as well as the WSU Symphony and the PLU Symphony Orchestra. She's been playing violin for fourteen years and piano for sixteen years.

Jill Schneider teaches organ and piano at Washington State University in Pullman, where she is active as an accompanist and adjudicator. She is the organist at Trinity Lutheran in Pullman and also teaches 22 students in her piano studio.

Kailee Shiraishi is a junior from Honolulu, Hawaii. She is a music education major with a focus on elementary instrumental music. Kailee has been playing the violin for eight years and the piano for about nine years. Kailee is also a member of the University Symphony Orchestra. Kailee hopes to travel abroad and teach internationally.

Alec Sjöholm is a junior from Lynnwood, Washington, majoring in harp performance. He has played harp for about eleven-and-a-half years, cello for about ten-and-a-half years, and piano for longer than he can remember. He has played harp with the Octava Chamber Orchestra and Cascade Youth Symphony Orchestra; he currently plays with the University Symphony Orchestra.

Darren Williams is a junior from Spanaway, Washington, studying music education with a concentration in Orchestra. Darren is a member of the University Symphony Orchestra, a volunteer at Ferrucci Junior High School, and a lessons instructor at Spanaway Lake High School.
