

ENGLAND

The Industrial Revolution

J-Term 2014

Manchester gave rise to global developments in politics, economics, literature, and art. Visitors can still experience its unique contributions to industrialization, free trade, unions, abolitionism, parliamentary democracy, and realist fiction. Program highlights include:

- Relive industrial history through walking tours guided by local experts.
- Explore world-class museums on industry, art, social history, and slavery.
- Visit significant locales featured in 19th- and 20th-century literature.

The Industrial Revolution

Credit:

ENGL 213/POLS 288

- Department Credit
- LT (ENGL 213) or
SO* (POLS 288)

Program Cost:

$3,050

Includes airfare, lodging, program related transportation, and supplemental study abroad insurance.

Faculty:

Solveig Robinson
Associate Professor of English
253-535-7241
solveig.robinson@plu.edu

Peter Grosvenor
Associate Professor of Political Science
253-535-7399
pcg@plu.edu

For further information contact the Wang Center for Global Education

253-535-7577
Wang.center@plu.edu

[http://www.plu.edu/
studyaway/](http://www.plu.edu/studyaway/)

Course Description:

Birthplace of the modern world, Manchester was the world's first industrial city, and it has left a deep imprint on politics, economics, literature, and art. Through walking tours and visits to historical sites, and through readings by Shelley, Gaskell, Engels, and Orwell, we will trace the progress of industrialization and political reform and evaluate literature's power as a political tool. Highlights will include visits to the People's History Museum, Museum of Science & Industry, the Town Hall, the Art Gallery, Old Trafford, and the Imperial War Museum, plus the Slavery Museum and Maritime History Museum in nearby Liverpool.

*POLS 288 may fulfill the SO GenEd requirement, interested students should contact the Chair of the Political Science Department, Professor Sid Olufs

Application Deadline:

September 30, 2013. A non-refundable deposit of $50.00 is required with the application. A $250 non-refundable payment to confirm participation in the course is due within 10 days of notification of acceptance. Maximum 18 students.

