PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Germany, Austria, and the Czech Republic are rich with musical tradition. This one small area of Europe was the central location for many of the finest musicians of the 17th, 18th, 19th, and 20th centuries. This course seeks to contextualize the lives and working conditions of these great artists by studying their music and attending concerts in the great concert halls, opera houses, and salons that they used.

Why should we study music in this region?

This course will experience music in the spaces where many of these great works were first heard. Students will have the opportunity to contextualize the art and understand their significant historical and social functions. The great museums and cathedrals of the region will also help our students to gain a greater understanding of the times.
